

APR
22

Creative Technologies and the Arts of Resilience

by Deering Estate - Cultural Arts

Free

Sales Ended

DETAILS

DESCRIPTION

'Creative Technologies and the Arts of Resilience in Miami: An Interactive Dialogue'

On April 22nd, 2017, Deering Estate, the FIU History Department's Ecohumanities for Cities in Crisis project, and special partners are pleased to co-present "Creative Technologies and the Arts of Resilience in Miami: An Interactive Dialogue." This moderated discussion will explore how artists and organizers can use technology, new media, and creative data collection to foster collaboration and education. The discussion will take place on April 22 from 2:00-4:00 PM and will kick-off the Deering Spring Contemporary exhibition opening for Platform 450. The event is free and open to the public; light refreshments will be provided.

The Deering Spring Contemporary exhibit Platform 450 presents artworks that use scientific data and new technologies as tools to explore the Deering Estate's 450-acre natural and historic site. "Creative Technologies and the Arts of Resilience in Miami" will complement the exhibition through an interactive small-group dialogue format that will engage participants about how technology in the arts can motivate community resilience. Local artists and activists will share their experiences, and participants will join the conversation with featured speakers. This format provides an opportunity to meet and talk with other Miami residents, to explore the roles of both speaker and listener, and offers a space to test new ideas.

Panelists include Kevin Arrow and Barron Sherer of the picture and film archive Obsolete Media Miami (O.M.M.) and Willie Avendano of the Wynwood education lab 01, with moderator Danni Washington of the arts and media-based ocean conservation initiative The Big Blue & You.

DATE AND TIME

Sat, April 22, 2017
2:00 PM – 4:00 PM EDT
Add to Calendar

LOCATION

Deering Estate Visitor Center
16701 Southwest 72nd Avenue
Miami, FL 33157
View Map

FRIENDS WHO ARE GOING

 Connect to Facebook

The Ecohumanities for Cities in Crisis project is funded through a grant from the Humanities in the Public Square Initiative of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Cultural Arts Programming at the Deering Estate is made possible with the support of the Miami-Dade County Department of Cultural Affairs and the Cultural Affairs Council, the Miami-Dade County Mayor and Board of County Commissioners, the National Endowment for the Humanities, Miami Dade County Department of Cultural Affairs Playwright Development Program administered by the South Florida Theater League, University of Miami Theater Arts, Leeds U.K., Florida International University, and The Deering Estate Foundation, Inc.

TAGS

Things To Do In Miami, FL Seminar Community

SHARE WITH FRIENDS

Deering Estate - Cultural Arts

Organizer of Creative Technologies and the Arts of Resilience

PROFILE CONTACT

Creative Technologies and the Arts of Resilience

at

Deering Estate Visitor Center

16701 Southwest 72nd Avenue, Miami, FL 33157

