

Kimberly A. Nolan García is an assistant professor in the International Studies Division at CIDE, the Centro de Investigación y Docencia Económicas in Mexico City. Her research interests are centered in themes of the international political economy, including the politics of US trade policy towards Latin America, the protection of labor rights in the international system, and transnational political advocacy around non-traditional trade issues. Her most recent article, "Transnational Actors and Labor Rights Enforcement in the North American Free Trade Agreement," appears in Latin American Politics and Society, volume 53 number 2 (2011).