SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

The collection includes rare books, manuscripts, artifacts, photographs, maps, architectural drawings, and audio materials that document the history and culture of Miami, Florida, the Caribbean, and Latin America. In order to enhance our collection, the department continues to acquire new material that support our researchers needs. All of our resources are available to the public for discovery and research.

UNIVERSITY ARCHIVES

The University Archives serves as the depository of the official records relating to the founding, development of, and future plans for Florida International University. The collection includes: the working papers of the University's presidents; photographs documenting faculty and students, events, building and campus scenes; and memorabilia documenting student life and university traditions.

RECORDS MANAGEMENT

The University Records Management program advises in matters related to retention schedules, digitization and/or the proper maintenance of records. The program offers training and advises on the regulatory process of records retention and disposition of non-archival records. For more information, visit the website recordsmanagement.fiu.edu

Special Collections, Records Management and University Archives assessments are provided in an effort to preserve documents and materials that have historical value.
