

More Artists' Mothers

By Alex Rocky Ferrer

Botticelli's Mother

Editor's Note: Many moons ago I saw a greeting card titled "Jackson Pollock's Mother," which depicted a little Jackson in the kitchen, looking up at this mother, whose apron was splattered with spaghetti sauce and other culinary colors.

For Vol. 3, No.2, and Vol.4, No.1 of Inspicio, we asked cartoonist Alex Rocky Ferrer to imagine the mothers of other notable artists.
