ORCID & Embargo Options

Do students make the connection?

WHY DO PEOPLE
THAT
EMBARGO
CREATE AN
ORCID?
(AND VICE-VERSA)

ORCID &
EMBARGO

All Ph.D.

45% – already had an ORCID

21% – intend to publish

12% - publisher requested it & department recommended it

6% - thought it was required, dept. Recommended it, have heard some publishers require it

ORCID (33)

68% – thought it was necessary for publishing

16% – Dept. Encouraged them to embargo

12% - publisher requested it & department recommended it

4% - unhappy with research, publisher required it, may publish in the future, don't want to share research

Embargo

ORCID, BUT NO

EMBARGO, BUT NO ORCID

Why did you choose not to embargo?

46% want research to be freely available to be cited

29% intend to publish and want their research discoverable

10% found no reason to embargo

65% had already previously published parts of their work

86% Ph.D.

Why did you choose to embargo?

Why did you create an ORCID

I already had one (43%)

I intend to publish and believe ORCID will be helpful (21%)

A publisher requested it (13%)

I have heard some publisher require it (8%)

Someone in my dept. recommended it (7%)

I thought it was a good idea whether I publish or not (4%)

I thought it was required (2%)

Why did you choose not to create an ORCID

Did not know what ORCID was (38%)

It wasn't required (33%)

I didn't notice the ORCID field in the form (13%)

I didn't think it was important (9%)

I didn't have time (5%)

Summary

- ▶ Ph.D.'s understand ORCID
- ▶ Departments are educating on embargo & ORCID
- ▶ Master's students not getting the same education on these topics
- ▶ Continued growth of publishers/governments, grants, and patents require ORCID

Surprises

- My survey caused people to embargo
- Far more students are aware of ORCID before submitting their research than previously thought
- Not having enough time to create an ORCID
- Missing the ORCID field
- Almost 40% don't know what ORCID is
- 75% want to share their research

Issues that can be addressed

- How do we help Master's students?
 - ORCID signage in library?
 - Is it part of first year experience?
- We will likely not require ORCID
- Make ORCID field more visible
- Find a better way to share the brevity of signing up for ORCID
 - Have an ORCID sign up event each semester?
- Better education about open access for students AND faculty
 - Publisher negotiation?
 - Citation benefits of OA
