Keep It In The Ground! An Eco-Political Music Video

Abstract

Keep it in the Ground - an original piece from Bill Carroll - features footage from various places, worldwide – showing the extraction of carbon from the earth and the popular resistance to that, including student strikes, extinction rebellion, Ende Gelände, COP protests, Indigenous protectors and divestment. Musically, it's sped-up hip-hop with marimba/vibes accompaniment.

Produced by Bill Carroll, a musician and long-time ecosocialist activist from Victoria, British Columbia.

Original music, with images and videos from around the world, showing the extraction of carbon from the earth and the popular resistance.

Bill says: "I hope it may be of value as a mobilizing tool for climate action. Please feel free to share it widely."
