

Fall 2012

Diaspora and Development

Cuban Research Institute, Florida International University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.fiu.edu/cri_events

 Part of the Latin American Studies Commons

Recommended Citation

Cuban Research Institute, Florida International University, "Diaspora and Development" (2012). Cuban Research Institute Events. 236.
https://digitalcommons.fiu.edu/cri_events/236

This work is brought to you for free and open access by the Cuban Research Institute at FIU Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Cuban Research Institute Events by an authorized administrator of FIU Digital Commons. For more information, please contact dcc@fiu.edu.

Cuban Research Institute

School of International and Public Affairs

Diaspora and Development

<http://diasporaydesarrollo.com/>

The website "Diaspora and Development" (D&D) is part of the project on "The Cuban Diaspora and the Development of the Entrepreneurial Sector in Cuba" of the Cuban Research Institute (CRI), at Florida International University; and is implemented in cooperation with the Cuba Study Group. The Center for Latin American and Caribbean Initiatives (CLACI) of Miami Dade College joined the project in September 2012.

D&D wishes to contribute to the success of Cuban entrepreneurs on the Island, and of family and friends that support them from the diaspora. At the same time, the Cuban diaspora could benefit from the experience of other transnational communities in the development of their countries of origin, and of proposals that Cuban experts have published in various media. It is the purpose of this website to gather all this information that today is scattered in many different parts of the Internet.

The sites included in D&D represent a wide range of ideological and political perspectives. D&D's goal is to encourage communication and the free flow of information between Cubans everywhere on the issues already mentioned.

D&D is funded by the Ford Foundation.