HAMILTON AND MAYOR CAMPAIGNING

Mayor voted to SGA associate chair

LYNNE E. KAVA
News Editor

Maricel Mayor won the run-off election for the position of SGA Associate Chairperson against H. Clayton Hamilton, Tues., Oct. 19.

The run-off election was scheduled because no one person won a majority vote in the first election.

To determine who goes to the run-off election the candidates with the most votes in decreasing order are added together till a total of at least 50 per cent of votes have been reached.

MAYOR RECEIVED 389 votes as compared to Hamilton's 295.

Mayor explains her platform, "My main concern at this time is the understanding among students," by saying that the word international in Florida International University's name is there for a reason, so, we should "Internationalize."

Believing that the international goal needs to be brought back to everyone's attention and that part of the responsibility lies on FIU's administration, Mayor says, "The administration are reneging in their duties."

Mayor feels everyone knew she had worked hard for FIU and that is why she won the election. She was Chairperson of International Week and the past president of the Interact Club.

SHE WAS disappointed, though, because, "I was discriminated against, by a few, because I was a woman." Mayor pointed out that the ballot box was labeled Assoc. Chairman, not Assoc. Chairperson.

Mayor doesn't think her sex should have been made an issue. "You will win because you are a woman," Mayor said several people sarcastically said.

Now that she is Assoc. Chairperson till the spring 1977 election, Mayor expects to keep-up her record of working hard for students at FIU.

Currently a senate member, Mayor feels everyone knew she had worked hard for FIU and that is why she won the election. She was Chairperson of International Week and the past president of the Interact Club.

SGA retreat petitioned

LINDA RODRIGUEZ
Staff Writer

About a dozen students joined together last Thursday to protest the Student Government Fall Retreat. They set up a table in UH to have students sign petitions supporting their cause.

This is one of the few times that any group has gotten together in an organized manner to protest an SGA event.

The group objects to the retreat because of the money involved in taking, housing and feeding 35 senators at a west coast resort hotel for a week-end. They want to know why the retreat can't be held on FIU's campus rather than off campus.

THE AMOUNT of money involved could be used for a better purpose in their point of view.

The SGA retreat is organized after each election to get the new senators acquainted with the parliamentary procedure, the SGA budget, and each other. Director of Student Activities Lillian Kopenhaver said that the concept of a retreat is good if it is used as a learning experience. The $2,000 allocated for the retreat is the maximum amount that could be set aside for the function. "In the past we have rarely used the maximum amount," Kopenhaver said. The rest of the money reverts back to SGA.

At this time it is too late to stop the retreat as the commitments have been made and even if the SGA did not go, they would have to pay for the hotel and food.

THE ARGUMENT against having the retreat at FIU is because of the lack of privacy and the ability of the senators to be interrupted easily.

According to group member Reid Dulberger there is more to the petitions than just the retreat. He and the group feel that there is a lack of information flow from the SGA to the students.

He explained, "On campus the way things are set up, students have to look for information. You can't expect the students to spend their limited time to go after information. So we would like to open students eyes and say: this is what's going on."

HE WENT further and stated, "Also, ...show student senators that students here do care how the money is spent and maybe you can't go spending it anyway you like... Cause it's our money; Collectively our money."

Kopenhaver said she was pleased with the student protest.

"They have strong feelings about something and they are taking action on it. I think taking action is healthy rather than being apathetic and not reacting to anything," she said. Kopenhaver went on to say that the Senate had voted on the retreat and it was duly passed. Any reversal would have to take place by a Senate vote.

Assistant Activities Director Tom Reilly said it is too late for the petition to alter the plans for the retreat this time. The spring retreat may be a different story because the protesting group has learned what to do to stop it.

The awakening of the students to SGA affairs is seen as good by senators, Dennis DeToro, George Augustin and Bill Ashton. They said they too would like to see more communication with the people they serve.

North Miami campus to offer courses

DANIEL VARGO
Staff Writer

The North Miami Campus of Florida International University will offer 41 courses at two North Miami locations during the Winter Quarter, January 5 through March 18, 1977. The courses are open to anyone in the community.

Since the construction of classrooms is still continuing, the pre-opening program of academic courses will be offered at the North Campus of Miami-Dade Community College and at North Miami Beach Community School, on 167 Street.

"Because of a strong community interest and many course requests, we will offer this pre-opening schedule of courses prior to our full-service opening in June of 1977," said Dr. Milton Byrd, Provost of the North Miami Campus.

Early registration will be at FIU Oct. 25 to Nov. 5 and at the North Miami Campus on Dec. 8 from 1 to 7 p.m. Registration times at FIU are 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday thru Thursday and 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday. Students may also register at Miami-Dade Community College North and North Miami Beach Community School on Jan. 5-6 and 10-11 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Students should register at the earliest possible time to ensure a place in class.

Academic units offering courses include the College of Arts and Sciences, School of Business and Organizational Sciences, School of Education and School of Health and Social Services.

The North Miami Campus expects to offer 60 courses on its campus in Spring and will admit 1600 students when it opens officially in June.

The campus will offer selected majors in 22 fields at both undergraduate and graduate levels.

Specific questions regarding eligibility and admissions requirements may be directed to the Office of Admissions and Community College Relations on the Tamiami Campus, or call 552-2231.

Legislators up loan funds

JOHN KINNEY
Staff Writer

Additional funds for student loans have been made available due to the increase of the issuance of Revenue Bonds.

The Florida Legislature passed a bill effective July 11, 1976 to increase the current authorization for the issuance of these bonds from $40 million to $65 million.

Accredited universities and junior colleges are eligible for the loans, distributed proportionately, according to enrollment.

The fees assessed full-time students for support of the Student Financial Aid Trust Programs are increased from $3.00 to $4.68 per quarter and from $4.50 to $7.02 per semester.

According to Florida International University's Director of Financial Aid, Jack Agett, the number of FIU students receiving these state-insured loans "will be determined by inflation, tuition and the willingness of local banks to grant them."

Some qualifications for these short-term loans are that a student must be a citizen of this country, a resident of the state of Florida for the last previous one year and attend school full-time.

Additional information is available in the Student Financial Aid office, UH 340.

Political seminar clears pre-election questions

A Political Awareness Seminar, which will give Florida International University's students an opportunity to achieve a clear understanding of the issues in the Nov. 2 presidential election, will be Thursday, Oct. 28, at 12:30 p.m., in UH 150.

The object of the seminar is to delineate the specific policies of President Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter.

Speakers will be open to questions from the audience.

The seminar is sponsored by a new club, Students for International Understanding (S.F.I.U.).

S.F.I.U. hopes the seminar will be a first in a series, featuring guest speakers from local Ford and Carter campaign headquarters.

S.F.I.U. will also sponsor an "Election>Returns Special" in the Rathskeller on the night of the election. A television will be placed in the Rathskeller so election returns can be viewed by those who attend. Happy Hour prices and a band will be featured.

Journalism Day

Approximately 500 students from high schools and colleges came to Journalism Day, Oct. 23. Local members of Miami's professional journalists headed seminars and panels. Florida International University's Mass Communication Club and the Greater Miami Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, sponsored the event.

CE eases post-college job opening worries

LYNNE E. KAVA
News Editor

Students who are concerned about career opportunities have a good chance to improve them through Cooperative Education. CE is a program offering eligible students a chance to alternate a minimum of two full quarters of classroom study with full quarters of employment.

CE STUDENTS receive academic credit and earn wages while they work. The program is designed to be a stepping stone into the working world by helping students apply and relate scholastic theory to their chosen job field.

Patrick Russell, Director of Cooperative Education, said, "I could help a lot more students if they only were aware of CE's existence."

INSTEAD OF a student working at some menial part-time job, why not work at a career related job, Russell said.

Another advantage is students can look forward to future employment with the organizations they are placed with if a mutual, profitable relationship is formed.

CE is in its beginning stages of development, so if a specified job with good instructorship is not available now, a suitable job will be found eventually.

A STUDENT is eligible if he has been admitted to a program of full-time study leading to a Bachelor's degree, completed at least one full quarter of full-time academic work at Florida International University and has an acceptable scholastic status.

For additional information concerning CE, interested students should ask their faculty advisors, whose approval is mandatory, or contact Director of Career Planning Programs, Patrick Russell, UH 340, 552-2421.

'Together we can't lose'

To the Editor:

We know that though we are in the most productive times in history, our society experiences as many if not more problems than in times past. With our experience at the last election, everyone is saying that 'the people don't care.' But we know, as you do that our members do care. And that thousands in the State do too.

In discussions with many knowledgeable people, it has been suggested that perhaps one of the best issues for gaining the active support of the people, is Auto Insurance Rates.

Almost all families across the State are hurt by it. The opinion is that the issues clearly favor the people, that the monopolies are badly using the people who are now aroused by it. We know too, that few healthy changes will be made until the people exert their influence and insist on it.

Since our students and young are most seriously hurt by this and the campuses are available for initiating this campaign, many of them volunteered to spearhead this.

However, we do not feel our young alone should bear the brunt, do our work for us. So we are asking all concerned organizations to help. We know that only by acting in concert, each doing their own thing, can we be successful. Our object is to mount a broad-based campaign and to keep the issue and the proposed changes in public view until we win.

We know that together we can't lose and perhaps our mutual efforts will set the stage for resolving some of our other perplexing public problems.

Consumer affairs discussions started

Consumer rights and the public interest, will be discussed by Father Albert J. Fritsch, co-director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, an active consumer organization in Washington, D.C., at 12:30 p.m., Tues., Nov. 9, in the UH Forum.

Nov. 10, Fritsch will speak on the topic, "Consumer Responsibilities in an Age of Scarcity," at 4 p.m., Wed., in the Student Union Ballroom at the University of Miami. Both talks are open and free to the public.

The Institute's Director, Dr. Milton Blum, Psychology professor and adjunct professor of Marketing at UM, said the Scholars Program is being conducted to recognize people who have contributed to the advancement of knowledge and improved relations in the field of consumer affairs.

"A primary objective of the Institute is to reduce the tensions, conflicts and dissatisfactions resulting from buyer-seller transactions and relationships," Blum said.

Think Milk, Think Snow, Think Colorado

...Thinking about milk is rewarding. Drinking milk is more rewarding. ...But thinking, ... and drinking milk could get you to Colorado. And that will happen to four Florida college students. Two girls and two guys will win ski trips to the snowy slopes of Colorado. Four hundred others will win "Milk Drinkers" tee shirts.

HOW TO WIN

All you have to do to win is follow the up-coming series of newspaper ads in your college newspaper and take the "Great Florida Milk Quiz." No purchase necessary!

DETAILS AND WHAT'S HAPPENING?

During the next few weeks, Florida's dairy farmers — producers of that great white stuff — milk — want you to think about MILK. Why? Because we know that students, like you, represent tomorrow's business and family leaders. And as such, will influence the opinions of others regarding good eating habits.

So that you will be informed about milk, we are going to present "the facts" about milk — right here in your college newspaper.

Then — you will be challenged to take the "Great Florida Milk Quiz." It will also appear in this newspaper. Simply take the "quiz" and write a milk slogan on the official form. Send it on or before December 10th. That's it. Judging will be completed by December 15, 1976 and winners will be notified immediately.

THE RULES

1) Only full or part time college students registered at Florida colleges are eligible.

- 2) Only one entry per student and it must be completed on official "Great Florida Milk Quiz" form. No purchase necessary.
- 3) Entries must be postmarked on or before December 10th.
- 4) Entries will be judged on correct answers and originality of milk slogan.
- 5) Judging will be conducted by December 15, 1976. Winners will be notified immediately.
- 6) No members of the dairy industry or members of their families are eligible to participate.

THE PRIZES

The four top winners — 2 girls — 2 guys — will win ski trips to ... Glenwood Springs, near Aspen, Colorado. The trip includes all transportation to and from Florida to the Colorado ski area, lodging, food and milk money for 7 days, 6 nights and all skiing necessities, including lifts and equipment. The trip must be taken December 26 — January 1, 1977.

Based on the judges decisions, the remaining 400 students will each win a "Milk Drinkers" tee shirt.

Keil talks here on Mars probe

Dr. Klaus Keil, of the NASA Johnson Space Center in Texas, discussed the Viking space probe with Florida International University students last Friday.

Keil explained how the probe works, accompanied by a slide show.

Keil's presentation began with a history of the planet Mars. The "canals," he said, are actually just cracks in the ancient surface of the planet. He said that scientists believed intelligent life could exist on Mars until accurate telescopes proved otherwise.

Keil said the Viking probes that have landed on Mars have photographed only a small fraction of the surface of the planet.

The probes have taken some very clear pictures of the red planet, he said, but the only sign that even microscopic life might exist is the ice recently discovered.

Quarter million dollars used to remodel two PC floors

In an attempt to improve the registration process and unify student-related records administration, the first two floors of the Primera Casa building will be remodeled soon.

Estimated cost of the project is $250,000 according to Director of Physical Planning Dan D'Oliveira. Bids will be received this month and remodeling will begin in December, he said.

The first floor, which is expected to be completed in March, will provide facilities for student-related administration. These include offices for admissions, registration, financial aid, cashier operations and additional classrooms. Also planned is an art gallery for itinerant art shows and student exhibitions.

The second floor will be converted to classrooms and offices of the Division of Community Affairs. Second floor construction is expected to be completed by June.

Spencer and Richards Architects and Planners designed the project, which involves 23,000 square feet on the first floor and 15,000 on the second.

Roommate Referrals Service Available for FIU students

Roommate Referrals of Miami opened in August and 25 per cent of its applicants are from Florida International University.

The personal approach is used, and through applications, interviews and careful screening, roommates are found to meet each other's specifications.

"Our service eliminates costly newspaper advertising, waiting for phone responses, prank calls and the chance of getting an irresponsible roommate," explained Director of Roommate Referrals Annette Lynn.

Because of FIU, the service has taken on an "international look," with applicants from Greece, New Zealand, France, Peru and Spain.

"CALLERS RANGE in age from 17 to 84, but the typical person is between 20 to 45," said Lynn, a former school teacher.

"Many coed roommates have been placed together successfully," she added, "but they must be for platonic relationships only."

Explaining how she got the idea to start the program, Lynn said, "I was always referring my friends to other friends who needed a roommate and that's how I got the idea for the referral service."

Clients fall into one of three categories: those who have a place to rent, those seeking a place to rent and those who are looking for a compatible person to share a place to rent. References are checked to be sure applicants are financially trustworthy.

CLAUDE PINSONNEAULT
Columnist

For years on end, we have been pleaded with to get out to vote, and what has been our reward? We have been cheated, lied to and as a result, many people do not vote at all.

Lately, I have come to view the people who refuse to vote either out of protest or simply out of sheer lack of interest, as two very special and distinct breeds.

The exorbitant number of public and private agencies can make an individual feel guilty if he does not get out to vote.

Free citizens have two important rights in addition to the right to vote. First, the right to make a choice and second the right to ignore the appeals of politicians and shrug their so-called civic duty.

EDGAR HOWE once wrote, "That politicians are permitted to carry on the same old type of disgraceful campaign, is an insulting, as would be a gang of thieves coming back to the town they had robbed and staging a parade and asking the people to cheer them."

I wish to show that the right not to vote is a healthy sign in a vital democracy. A wrong occurs when the right to vote is dishonored or disrespected.

If one examines the people who believe in every office seeker, one finds that they are either a bunch of fools or extremely naive. On the other hand a large share of the masses believe that every politician that ever came down the pike is either an accomplished crook or at the very least partly owned by a special interest of one type or another.

When the average citizen decides not to vote he does the republic a favor. It is a fair guess that most people who do not vote are either disgusted or have not formed an intelligent opinion. At the very least they just plain do not give a damn.

THERE IS nothing as dangerous as the uniformed or careless vote. When one does not

THE SERVICE is non-discriminatory and the person has the option of selecting or rejecting their potential roommate. Roommate Referrals is also concerned with the safety of their clients and recommends sharing apartments in usually safe areas.

A $25 fee covers the interviewing, application processing, screening, three reference checks and up to four referrals, which are discussed by phone first. A meeting is then set up. A two-month guarantee starts when the sharing of facilities begins.

Interviews are Monday thru Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Calls are answered from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. every day.

Roommate Referrals is about 10 minutes from FIU and the phone number is 595-5867.

You have a right not to vote!

care enough to vote on his own initiative we should not drag or prod him to vote.

People have a right to choose not to support a candidate and should be able to indicate their displeasure with all the candidates on the ballot by checking off a space which says "None of the above."

In addition to not voting the people have a right not to become involved and not to cast their ballot because of a self-determined lack of knowledge or lack of interest.

A healthy democracy needs the exercise of all three—the right to vote, the right not to vote and the right not to care.

Real Estate Scholarship awarded

Scholarships are awarded to students enrolled in the school of business and organizational sciences who are making satisfactory progress toward obtaining either a baccalaureate or masters degree in real estate.

The scholarship is renewable at the discretion of the selection committee composed of FIU Department of Real Estate faculty representatives and the Miami Board of Realtors.

Three Florida International University students have been named 1976 real estate scholarship recipients by The Miami Board of Realtors.

The three students are Daniel L. Peele, Glenn E. Garton, and Marilyn Eshghi.

Original jewelry displayed

Jewelry that lets you know how you're feeling! It's true. The internationally known jeweler Mary Ann Scherr displayed some of her unique jewelry for students and public at Florida International University.

The Kent State teacher was here as part of the Visiting Artists Program of the Student Art Association.

Scherr has designed jewelry that is used as monitoring devices for the human body.

An ornamental tracheotomy tube, a bracelet that measures pulse rate, a pendant of liquid crystals that displays the heart beat and a pendant with smoke sensors when activated by smoke, triggers a music box which plays Smoke Gets In Your Eyes, where demonstrated along with other devices by Scherr at a movie lecture Thursday evening.

Will Ford be safe at 'home'?

"When you stop winning they not only start booing, they start forgetting."

—a well-known American

JOHN EWALD
Sports Editor

No, Don Shula did not say that the other day.

He certainly could have after his Dolphins played themselves right out of any postseason activity by losing four of their first six games, however. And he certainly must attribute all those empty Orange Bowl seats (if that's what those plastic slabs can be called) to the fact that "Dol-fans" love only a winner and they would rather stay home than boo.

But the well-known American who made that statement is a former football coach and player who spends his rather limited free time these days on the golf course or the ski slopes. As his alma mater, the Michigan Wolverines, march undefeated to a possible national championship, he fondly remembers his college days in Ann Arbor when he played for two undefeated national championship Michigan teams.

ON OCCASIONAL Sunday afternoons he visits Robert F. Kennedy Stadium in Washington and second guesses Coach George Allen's strategy concerning the Redskins. When he coached at Yale for six football seasons his teams were more conservative than Allen's and much younger than the Redskins' famed "Over the hill Gang."

The Green Bay Packers, then led by the famed Curly Lambeau, wanted to sign him after he played magnificently in the East-West Shrine Game. In his senior year at Michigan he was named the team's Most Valuable Player. During his playing career he was known as a rugged center who could block anybody.

In a game against Northwestern he led the offensive line in opening up big holes for the Wolverine running backs. After the battle his opponent, All-American middle guard Rip Whalen, was asked why Michigan had made so much ground up the middle that day. His reply was simply, "Because Jerry Ford was the best blocking center I ever played against."

The President of the United States is the man responsible for the quote at the top of the page. And next Tuesday his opponent is tougher than mean Rip Whalen.

JERRY FORD is going up against an unproven newcomer from Georgia. And though the game is quite different, the winner will be the one with the most points. The score will be in the millions and at this stage the final score is one that even Jimmy the Greek himself is calling too close to call.

Major League Baseball

WILL HE BE BACK FOR FOUR MORE SEASONS?

But even if he loses, Jerry Ford will be able to look back on a career of competition, knowing that he won more times than he lost. Certainly as an athlete, Jerry Ford has enjoyed the thrill of victory. How many Presidents can you name other than President Ford who played for a national championship team in any sport? He's even made the cover of Sports Illustrated and still swims 15 minutes twice a day in the White House pool.

At baseball's annual All-Star Game this summer in Philadelphia, President Ford threw out the first pitch right-handed and left-handed! He's entertained soccer great, Pele, and the United States Olympic Team at the White House and calls several famous athletes his personal friends.

Former Dolphin Norm Evans, ex-Yankee great Bobby Richardson and tennis champion Stan Smith are among President Ford's favorites.

THE PRESIDENT of the United States is a "fan." He reads the sports pages daily and knows first-hand of the joys and the pain and the companionship that athletics are all about. He promotes sports in America and says today's athletes are "bigger, stronger, faster and better cared for." He further states, "Our better athletes today, despite the times and all the terrible crises, are really the vanguard of our young leadership. I know that in terms of awareness they are way out in front."

When he was House Minority Leader, Jerry Ford was a regular adversary of Lyndon Johnson. One day LBJ remarked, "There's nothing wrong with Jerry Ford except that he played football too long without his helmet."

The late Texan got a lot of mileage out of that quote and one day President Ford used it himself when he addressed the Gridiron Club in Washington. "I said he was wrong," Ford recalls, "that I always wore my helmet on any gridiron, and I picked up my old leather bonnet and put it on, right on top of my white tie and tails. It had been a while, though. I had a hard time getting it down over my ears. Of course, heads do have a tendency to swell here in Washington."

The sports world has a friend in Jerry Ford. And next April when another baseball season is upon us, I hope to see him reaching back as every President since Taft back in 1910 has done, and throwing out the first pitch.

FIU Sports Shorts

The FIU Soccer Team raised their season record to 6-2 last week with two shutout victories. The first win was over the Jacksonville University Dolphins, 6-0, as Sunblazer Wes Peterson scored two goals. FIU also got winning scores from Mark Pro, Don Buslinger, George Bofill and Ed Mausser. FIU goalie Besterio Palomeque continued his outstanding play, making five saves on the FIU Field.

The Sunblazers sixth victory was also a shutout, Palomeque's sixth of the year. Don Buslinger, Mark Pro and Wayne Guthrie scored in the win over FIT at Melbourne.

Saturday (Oct. 30) the team meets Rollins on the FIU Field at 1 p.m. in the biggest match of the year for Coach Bill Nuttall's Sunblazers. FIU students and friends are invited to attend this game and there will be a soccer clinic on the field after the Sunblazer victory.

The FIU Women's Volleyball Team suffered another serious injury at the recent M-DCC-South Invitational Tournament when Melody Van Valkenburg sprained her ankle. Melody may be lost to the Sunblazers for the rest of the year as ligament damage to the ankle is feared. The FIU Women finished 4th overall.

Slimnastics free at FIU

If you've got the salt, I've got the Sauza.

Nothing gets a good thing going better than Sauza Tequila. That's because Sauza is the Number-One Tequila in all of Mexico. And that's because Sauza Tequila—Silver or Gold—does best all the things anybody would want Tequila to do.

Try it the classic down-Mexico way: in a shot glass, with salt and lime on the side. Or in a Margarita. Or in a Sunrise. Who knows where it will all lead?

Feedback on Spanish Coloquim

This survey concerns a colloquium conducted in Spanish by the Liberal Studies Program of the A&S College. A colloquium is scheduled this winter, in English, and is to be taught by four professors from different disciplines, teaching two classes and participating in an opening and closing panel. This Spanish colloquium, if approved, will give the student an added dimension to his education, the Spanish vernacular and terminology of his particular discipline.
