The African Diaspora: New Global Architecture of Caribbean Development

• Caribbean region is ideally suited to an exploration of alternative development initiatives rooted in new global formations.

• Network instantiated through the Caribbean’s African Diasporic linkages, including the region’s linkages to its immigrant populations residing particularly but not exclusively in the Global North;

• These networks of relationships and their potential role in future development formations are critical.

Diasporic NGOs Experience in Rebuilding Efforts

Value = Technical Knowledge + Lots of Experience
Diasporic NGOs Unique Capabilities to Succeed in Haiti

* Large Contingent of Professionals
* Technical Skills and Experience Acquired in North
* Knowledge of Country and Strong Family Relationships
* Access to Same Resources
Understand the challenges (different from usual) and be ready to work for immediate results.

Soft Sector NGOs must partner/hire Diaspora and Haitian engineers

Play the hard punch political game for competition or access to resources

Strategic partnerships with engineering behemoths, e.g., Bechtel, Brown & Root, Carlyle Group.
Where Do We Go from Here

- Strengthen FIU-UWI Partnership to Further Explore NGOs Impacts.

- Validate Original Research and Document Role of NGOs in Rebuilding Infrastructure of Haiti Since Earthquake.
