Welcome Amigos

International understanding doesn’t come automatically. It grows slowly as it is nurtured through decades, generations and centuries.

Operation Amigo International at F.I.U. is dedicated to that purpose on campus; we urge you to participate also. The road is open to F.I.U. students and the Argentine students for direct exchange of ideas, and, learn much about each other. That knowledge will play important role in the future relationships between United States and Latin America.

Argentina is a great land, rich in its European background, rich in its historical heritage, rich in its resources. Its people are a gracious, hospitable people. We hope the stay of our guests in their homes and at school will be beneficial and rewarding.

The visitors have been active community participants who have contributed their time to the project. Those who are involved directly toward achieving a true international understanding.

A CRISIS INTERVENTION CENTER ON FIU’S CAMPUS? Some students think it’s a fine idea and have organized to do something about it.

A group of concerned students met Wednesday, February 14, to lay the groundwork for a center. Among those attending the organizational meeting were Dr. Barry Zwibelman, University of Miami’s “Open Door” program coordinator and Steve Greenberg, the originator and coordinator of “Switchboard.”

Greenberg, a Miami attorney, answered questions concerning legality and enumerated eight pertinent procedural steps in setting up a crisis intervention center.

The members, tentatively agreeing that the crisis center would be called “Listening Post” are receptive to either suggestions from anyone interested enough to contact them.

Still recruiting members for the center, they agreed to meet again on Monday, February 26. The meeting will be held in room D.M. 114 at 7:30 P.M.

The purpose of the center is twofold: to aid FIU students in finding solutions to their problems, and to offer referrals either by telephone or in person. Their motto is: Helping others to help themselves.

“Although there are many problems inherent in organizing a crisis center, the members grow more confident and enthusiastic in proportion to the barriers which block their path,” said Neil Herman, Chairman.

FIU Plans First Graduation Ceremony

By Robert Simich

In approximately four months, an estimated 100 FIU students will receive their diplomas in a ceremony which has never been held at a public upper division school in Dade County’s history.

William Savely, Director of Registration, has requested all students completing their course requirements either this quarter or the Spring quarter to obtain a “FIU June 1973 Application for Graduation” form from their respective Departments. The forms are to be completed and returned by March 15, the deadline for students to apply for graduation in June.

Those students finishing course requirements this quarter will receive a “Certification of Graduation” upon authorization of their respective Departments. The Winter and Spring term graduates will together participate in the school’s first graduation ceremony, according to recommendations made by University Registrar Ron Butler to President Perry on February 13.

Butler’s recommendations, the only actual work done on the graduation ceremony itself thus far, includes the suggestion that the ceremony be formal and that a committee be established to plan the entire program. The committee would consist of two administrators and professional staff people, two academic deans, two faculty, one representative from student services, and two students.

Planning a graduation ceremony includes many various and sundry details and duties, and will have much work to do before next June, not the least of which is finding out who forgot to fill out their application forms by March 15.

Student Governance To Hold Meetings

After months of hard work the Student Governance Committee will be holding hearings on their newly-finished constitution on the 26th, 27th and 28th of this month.

At these hearings, any FIU students wishing to discuss parts of their constitution will be able to do so freely.

It is most important that any objections to or additions to the constitution be made at these hearings so that any necessary changes can be made before the constitution is put to the vote of the student body.

The purposes of the hearings are: 1) To get something workable for the most amount of people; and 2) to permit students to participate democratically in their own governance.

The hearings will be held on the second floor of the Primera Casa Building, in the open area to the west of the cafeteria. On both February 26th and 27th the hearings will be held from 12:00 PM until 2:00 PM, and from 4:00 PM until 5:00 PM. On February 28th the hearings will last from 4:00 PM until 6:00 PM.

Copies of the newly-finished constitution may be obtained in the Student Services Office, Room 220 PC.
Is There A Future At FIU

In Memoriam ACTION, Florida International University Independent Student Newspaper November 27, 1972—February 23, 1973

During the first months at Florida International University, a number of meetings were held for students interested in the organization of a student newspaper. Two diverging opinions were reached: one to begin publication immediately and the second was to wait until sometime after January.

The persons who wished to begin immediate publication did so and the first issue of ACTION appeared on November 17, 1972.

The goal of ACTION has been to present students with an unbiased and truthful representation of events happening at FIU. Later plans include expanding the scope to include coverage of all topics of student interest.

ACTION has repeatedly called out for students to volunteer to help. Some have stepped up to the task, but the effect was slight. The burden of putting out a student newspaper for 6,000 students has continually rested on the shoulders of a few.

This burden can be borne for so long, however, and that time has been reached. The average staff member is taking 20+ credit hours and also holds at least part-time employment. Most, if not all, are weeks behind in their studies.

Had the response been greater, the result would have undoubtedly been different. We appreciate the growing number of “when I feel like it” contributors and groups, but a newspaper cannot survive on that. It needs a dedicated and energetic staff willing to put forth the necessary efforts to reach publication on a definite schedule.

The present staff has fulfilled this void, but the number of members has been so few that the need for the amount of time and energies needed has been too taxing on each individual.

Contributing to these problems, the ACTION staff has been involved in many meetings concerning room allocation, independent studies, student governance, etc. This required great amounts of additional time and effort. Had these problems not existed, or had ACTION received greater cooperation in solving them, perhaps action might have been able to survive.

ACTION’s coverage of student government activities has not helped in our fight for life. We have consistently tried to be honest and fair in reporting all sides of issues confronting Student Activities and Student Governance so that all FIU students would be knowledgeable of what is happening.

Rather than suggestions or honest criticisms, we have received a continuing barrage of disparaging remarks.

In fact, three of the five members of the Student Governance Budget Committee are presently organizing their own newspaper, MASCOT. We wish them the best of luck in printing a newspaper as well as honestly feel that there is a definite need for one on the FIU campus.

We only hope that they can be fair enough to give honest and accurate reporting of all sides of the issues—not just theirs. We further question if they can continue to serve in both capacities and do a fair job without infringing on the responsibilities of either position.

We would have hoped that they might have approached us and offered their services to ACTION, rather than try to compete.

This is an opinion for ACTION, but unlike a normal obituary the death of ACTION can still be reversed. A number of present staff members have agreed to continue working for a student newspaper if a sufficient number of new persons get involved.

In hopes that the continued success of an independent student newspaper might be realized, I am resigning my post as editor. As of next issue, Bob Barry will assume this position. I urge all interested students to get involved and help assure ACTION for students.

Letters to Editor

Dear Editor:

What we are engaged in is a project to eliminate the sale of foods containing risky or untested additives when more positive alternatives are readily available. By creating awareness and cooperation among students, faculty, and administrators of this institution we hope to not only increase the healthfulness of this community, but to also establish an effective and constructive means of spreading the awareness and changes throughout the community at large.

DANGERS AND UNNECESSARY RISKS INVOLVED IN PRESERVATIVES:

The introduction of synthetic and highly processed foods into the diet is in effect introducing a powerful unknown into the process of human evolution. There is no known way of testing the effects of an ingested additive one year after its ingestion, though many times additives remain in the tissue that long or longer.

Furthermore, the mere fact that a chemical tests safely on a laboratory animal is no proof that it is safe in other animals or human beings. Thalidamyde was proven to be harmless in experimental animals, but disastrous in human embryos.

Perhaps the least publicized of all the effects of additives are their effects on intelligence, memory, learning, and cognition. It is possible that the food Americans consume make them less clear minded, apathetic, dull, or less capable of individual creative thinking. Many drugs do have these effects. What effects might additives have?

Letters to Editor

Dear Editor:

The organizing of a Black Student Union is designed to bring about unity, understanding, culture, pride, and self realization. It is out of these needs that the first BSU was organized at Florida International University.

With this understanding the first meetings were held last quarter on Sunday afternoons, during which Leroy Bryant, Jr. was elected president of our organization. After several meetings we organized a tentative objective list. Included was interest in an international relationship with Africa, by having one month out of the year for exchange of students with Nigeria. Secondly we are interested in organizing an academic committee, which will consist of having tutoring service for those students who need help. Helping them to meet the strong academic requirements at the University.

As the organization develops, we are planning to open up a scholarship fund for needy Black students. Which we feel will help many Blacks from geographically deprived areas. There are just a few of the objectives that we feel can be accomplished through the understanding and cooperation of the administration.

With the first quarter of school closing, the BSU extended a recruitment dance to the entire adjudgment body of FIU. The dance turned out to be very successful because newly registered students were made aware of this organization.

During Black Relevance Week many activities were held expressing Black awareness. Included were art exhibits, guest speakers, and rap sessions honoring such great individuals as Frederick Douglass, George Washington Carver, Malcolm X, Phyllis Wheatley, Martin Luther King Jr. and many others. These activities were open to the entire student body with hope that they'll bring broader cultural understanding. Eventually, sometime in the future we hope to bring many influential Blacks as guest speakers.

"Wisdom is ofttimes nearer when we stop than when we soar."

The university is racing toward the second quarter and with it are plans for some to graduate into the real world of nine to five. But there is another part of the community at FIU that will remain and endure till their days come, it is specifically for those people we write today.

Our university has not yet established a school of journalism but some people have taken the initiative to bring to the campus an organ of communication of, by and for the students. This newspaper. Those who have ever joined a new experience know the pain of growth... the depression of failure... the joy of success. This student newspaper for all it's shortcomings is a success, you're reading it.

In our last edition we wrote of the student governance committee and the unsullied work they've done, 52 times they met and have prepared a constitution for your comment. This will be the second time this small group of people has come to you for comment and support... remember the form we all received that was to help this formulating committee understand our needs and wants. Not too many years in the future FIU will be huge... within a year it will be "The" University in Miami or in Orlando. We will all be proud someday soon to say we attended this institution and we feel some elements of it need your help today to be the great university tomorrow. The student government is one... this newspaper is another.

Beginning with the next issue we will change our format... we have the need of a few people to edit copy. English majors would have a challenge and fun. We need a few people who have something to say to write it down and let our editorial staff help you get it said... but most of all we need the student body to tell us whether or not they want a student newspaper. Three or four people just can't take the load of the whole process little help from our friends and we can all be proud... you know that "get involved thing."

CEC Meets

The new FIU Chapter of the Council for Exceptional Children held its first meeting January 31, on campus. Two prominent women involved in the national and State Chapters of CEC were guest speakers. The permanent officers elected were Deborah Murphy, President; Andrea Sturt, Vice-President; Linda Horland, Secretary; and Ronni Friedman, Treasurer.

Members are looking forward to the upcoming CEC State Convention in St. Petersburg on February 15, 16, and 17. The FIU Chapter is sending two delegates to the convention. Deborah Murphy will run for State President, and Ronni Friedman will run for State Secretary of the student CEC.

Environmental Action Group

Formed

By J. Parker

A group called ENVIRONMENTAL ACTION has recently been formed on the FIU campus. Composed of students, faculty, and staff, the organization plans to sponsor and promote activities that are of ecological importance.

Some of their initial projects include campus bike paths and facilities, a recycling center, conservation at FIU, field trips and environmental legislation.

They plan to meet the second Monday of each month at 8:30 p.m. in D.M. 323. For further information on their activities call Jack Parker or Ruth Weinher, FIU x2237.

Prayer For Future Of FIU—Humility

MY PRAYER

Dear Editor:

A few days ago I gazed out of the window and in so doing I noticed the bumper sticker which was on my car, it read "F.I.U. in '72, then I decided to write my prayer for F.I.U. in '72.

I pray that F.I.U. being a new University with its new concepts of the three I's, the night classes, and no F's will form the mold that will pour out for all times to come. Students that will be ready to except change and begin to set a new path of destiny in all fields of learning, living, and loving.

I pray that these students will never again enforce on mankind or let it be enforced upon them the type of conflict that has just ended.

I pray that each student leaving FIU will carry with him an unlimited amount of goodwill, love, trust, and devotion to man, school and country.

I pray that with every degree she or he may leave along with it will it with in itself encompass many degrees of self determination, faith, and respect not only for his chosen field or profession but of that of all professions.

I pray that we will compete selectively in a winning spirit in our University sports program but unselectively on the giant fields and stadiums in life—not only for his chosen field or profession but unselectively in a winning spirit in all fields of learning, living, and loving.

I pray that you all will become so large or so important in what ever we undertake as our chosen field that we will ever forget that their is still higher and greater rewards to be had.

MY FINAL PRAYER THAT AFTER TWENTY YEARS NOT ONLY I, BUT ALSO YOU, WILL ONCE AGAIN LOOK BACK AT DEAR OLD FIU.

HUUH!!?

By Robert Storch

Much consternation and concern has been raised by faculty, staff, and student over the names of the educational edifices on the FIU campus.

Thus far, not much complaint has been heard about "Primera Casa" and "Deuxieme Maison", other than the mute point that no one can pronounce them very fast except the faculty at Modern Languages.

The main thrust of discontent seems to be heralded at the buildings on the west side of the campus, "affectionately nicknamed "the pit". Although no one wonders what language the "Modular" building is, great diversity has arisen over the "Long" building.

The "Long" building, says the Political Science Department, was named after Huey Long, while the Math Department claims the title come from the honoring of Long Division. To add to the imitation, the English Department swears that the namers had Longfellow in mind, while the psychology Department was even considering something about "long suppressed desires."

In any event, the real person the "Long" building was named after will probably be contested for a long, long time to come.

Dade County Personal Crisis Center Helps With All -- Personal Problems

By ROBERT FOREMAN

The Personal Crisis Service is an emergency telephone service in Dade County offering immediate aid to people with pressing personal problems. When you're on duty with the Service, you never know what the next phone call will bring.

Every month, over 200 people call the Crisis Service for assistance. The calls are varied and they reflect the fears, frustrations and problems of people.

The caller might be a would-be suicide phoning for someone to help him avoid committing the final deed to which his despair is pushing him. Possibly he is somebody with crushing family problems or someone who feels trapped by financial disaster. He might be an alcoholic. He might be a person who knows he has an incurable, fatal illness and is terrified by the merciless, relentless approach of death. He might be an addict. He might merely be requesting the square root of 81 or a good recipe for lasagna. He might be anything from a pregnancy out of wedlock and the problem of an unwanted human life that is at its beginning to a potential suicide whose life might be approaching its end.

Whatever the problem, one thing is for sure—the person is calling for help.

What do you do? That depends on the nature of the problem as well as on the nature of the caller. There's no pat formula. No sure method. Often you will find yourself handling something that was not even covered in your training.

The most important thing you do is listen. You listen to what the caller says and to the way he says it. You listen not only to what he seems to be saying but to what he may really be saying. You listen because you want to communicate with him, you want to understand him, you want to help him.

In fact, sometimes all the caller needs to enable him to deal with his crisis is someone to talk to. Someone who shows interest in his thoughts and feelings. Someone who will listen.

The most pressing and immediately important call is the one from a person threatening to take his own life. Last year, 100 or more people called the Personal Crisis Service because they felt they were on the verge of destroying themselves. There is no way of telling how many people had suicide in their mind when they called but didn't mention it.

Some 20,000 Americans are known to kill themselves every year. Estimates of the number of unsuccessful attempts in the United States each year run as high as 150,000 or more.

What causes a person to want to do away with himself? The answers to this aren't clear. One thing is clear. A person who is so overwhelmed by the problems of life that life itself no longer seems bearable needs help. He needs it fast. He needs it right then as he struggles between the inborn wish to live and the demanding desire to die.

That's why suicide prevention services have been springing up all across America, why the Personal Crisis Service in our community includes suicide prevention service.

The Personal Crisis Service offers its assistance free of charge. Every call is kept completely confidential and the caller identifies himself by his first name only. Anyone with a problem that in his mind has reached the point of being a crisis may dial 379-361. A volunteer worker is on duty every day, 24 hours a day.

Like every other worker at the Crisis Service, you're a volunteer. You're there because you know you're needed, you want to help others.

You do get paid—by the feeling of satisfaction you enjoy when someone is helped. You get paid by the increased dimensions the work adds to your own life.

Vets Corner

Since we now have over 900 Veterans and we are growing everyday, isn't it about time we organize! There will be a Veterans Meeting on March 14, 1973, at 11:00 a.m. in Primera Casa 330 (Student Lounge). We will be discussing a Veteran's Club, it's organization and purpose of having such a club on our campus. Pertinent subjects on your educational benefits will be reviewed so PLAN TO ATTEND!

Uppermost in the mind of a Veteran is his V.A. Check! When it doesn’t arrive “on time” it can easily upset your whole way of life. Since the new law permits payment of allowance each month in advance, “on time” would mean you should receive your check within the first week of each month.

change schools your check is delayed, but don’t worry. When you do get it, it will be retroactive to the beginning of that quarter. When you transfer, you should promptly notify your present school that you are withdrawing or graduating. If you don’t, it may be a number of months before they canceled you. If this happens, you will get a bill from St. Petersburg stating the amount that you will get a bill from St. Petersburg paid through his last day of attendance. His next check will be a Veterans Meeting on March 14, 1973, at 11:00 a.m. in Primera Casa 530 (Student Lounge). We will be discussing a Veteran’s Club, it's organization and purpose of having such a club on our campus. Pertinent subjects on your educational benefits will be reviewed so PLAN TO ATTEND!

Your monthly rate. The student will receive only one Certification of Attendance, and your monthly rate.

1. Has the certification arrived? If so, check to see if it is on time. If it is not, check the VA Regional Office at 223-3888.

2. Have you received an Award Letter? This usually comes a few weeks before your first check and states your beginning and ending dates and your monthly rate.

3. Have you attended enough time between the submission of necessary documents for the payments to have been processed? Normally it takes 4-6 weeks from the time you turn in your Certificate of Eligibility until you get your first check.

4. Have previous periods of training if any, been certified? Attendance certifications for previous training are required before payment for any subsequent enrollment can be released.

The student will receive only one Certification of Attendance.

If distinct inferences of mediocrity cannot be drawn from all of the above, then perhaps this reporter is merely too cynical by half.

But, leaving the grand illusion of American politics behind, let us look briefly at our culture and environment. Charlie Brown

By wto

There have been in the last several years any number of articles on the “Peanuts” phenomenon, analyzing every aspect of the cartoon strip from its religiousity to the authenticity of Snoopy’s credentials as a folk hero.

But one aspect not yet touched down, to our knowledge, is Charlie Brown as a symbol of the real American ideal: mediocrity. Shocking thesis? Not really. Just take a look at our recent history: the elevation to the Presidency of one of America’s pettiest men, the incredible Richard Nixon, and the virtual annihilation of a tiny albeit troublesome country by one of the greatest world powers.

Thoreau In Jail
Staged At FIU
Beginning March 2

By HELEN MANNON

"Mama," the blonde student assistant for the Theatre Department walks into the director’s office and inquires the whereabouts of her superior. Good question; I’ve been looking for him too. Trying to make contact with a busy man isn’t easy. Well, someone once told me, "If you can’t handle the river noise, don’t run with the river boys." "Mama" found a note—Hein—go to DM 150, signed Phil. There is the man.

Philip Giberson was amidst the debris used to convert a lecture hall into a fully equipped theatre. Relaxed and leaning back on a folding chair I found Giberson explaining vocal variation to a young man who will play one of the characters in the upcoming play. The advice, "Experiment and discover." The director looks up at me and is ready to share his ideas about his art and his work. "Experimental... that is what a university theatre ought to be." Documenting his opinion, Giberson explains his plans for next year, "We want to export theatre to the community. We would like to go to South Beach, parks, elementary schools, and the streets." Ideas for a better theatre program at FIU.

"Next year we will try to offer three work-study students the experience of going out to Dade County parks and teach children creative tool and resource." Giberson continues.

In light of the international commitment at FIU this theatre group would like to see plays written by foreign playwrights performed on campus and to host foreign faculty members. The Argentinean students who are part of the Operation Amigo program will be some of the first people to see the upcoming play, "The Night Thoreau Went In Jail."

"Thoreau..." is a two act play to be featured March 2, 3, 4, and 9, 10, 11 in DM 150. The price of admission is $1.50 and tickets may be purchased at the cashier office (PC), at the office of Fine Arts at DM, from any drama student, and from any member of the cast. Ed Eriessen, a theatre major will star as Henry David Thoreau and Ray Millers, also a major, will be the assistant director in this production which will "consider the questions of war."

Casting for this play was open to the community. Giberson explains casting as, "The most critical aspect of a theatre production. Casting dictates itself to good people and ideas." Ten of the 21 people in this play are from FIU, and others are from the community at large. Giberson, an actor himself, interprets his department as, "Production oriented as opposed to the move, on-the-scene created by a rare combination of men and to you. This is the man who has first-rate combination of intellect, judgment, devotion and perseverance in our city."

The tour will include meals and complimentary beverage service and round trips from and to destinations. Gratis breakfast service will be provided at the hotel.

T.R.I.F. is dedicated to providing the lowest possible affinity group tours by taking advantage of expertise in the field of tourism and affiliation with FIU. This tour is being offered at the price of $127.50 and is only available to faculty, students, and staff of FIU and their families. There will be a $3.00 departure tax.

Relating his concept of censorship, he takes a breath and says, "I don’t think within an art form the question of taste should be left to the community. What is obscene is that which hurts life or is as destructive activity."

Winning is the name of the game, especially when it comes to collegiate athletics in the South Florida area. Those schools which do not beat the top caliber teams within the Miami radius do not make the headlines, unless their locker rooms are based at the athletic powerhouse University of Miami. The abilities of FIU soccer team paved the way for the spring athletic season, which has been laden in recent weeks with major sports victories out on the playing fields.

A strong contingent of FIU wrestlers, thriving on their abilities in the various weight classes, put in their best rounds of the season at Broward in the State Championships, Feb. 9-10. Reggie Johnson provided the chief competition for the defending state champion, John Rawley of Broward in the 167-pound weight class. He finished third in the standings at the tournament represented by 11 Florida colleges. Clint Riley and Ernest Lundy assisted in the accumulation of the school's nine points with a fifth in the 150-pound and sixth in the 134-pound weight classes. Coach John Munson's matmen returned to Borward three days later, where FIU won, 5-2, over College, which are FIU's doubles tennis team. (1-4) Phil Compton and Rudy Vargas.

In the women's golf circles, defending Eastern Regional Champion, Pat Bradley will represent FIU in the Rollins Intercollegiate Invitational at Winter Park last weekend. The 25-year-old Massachusetts golfer hopes to form the nucleus of an all-girl squad on campus next season. A woman's slow pitch softball intercollegiate team is now one jump ahead of the golf program, due to the efforts of Coach Judy Blucker. All girls whose abilities are out on the diamond should contact her at Ext. 2661.

FIU Wins Opener

First baseman Larry Hoskin's home run in the top of the fourth inning provided FIU with the needed initiative to trounce Miami-Dade JC South, 6-0 in the season opener on Feb. 10. Hoskin hit a 2-run shot in the fourth. He also scored the FIU's third run on a throwing error by Miami-Dade catcher. FIU's catcher was safe at third. The Blue men then scored in the top of the fifth to make the score 6-0. FIU won, 7-4, before pairing up with Michigan.
